The Bouzereau family has been living and cultivating the vine in Meursault for seven generations.

Year after year, Michel expanded the vineyard inherited from his father. In 1999, Michel left the family property of around 12 hectares to his son, Jean-Baptiste, for him to manage with the same devotion. The domaine is dominated by Chardonnay, with 10 wines produced from the Meursault and Puligny-Montrachet appellations. The Bouzereau family firmly believes that good wine is above all the result of a good harvest. Everything is done to obtain healthy, tasty fruit, which requires growing methods that respect the soil, the vine and the environment. Harvesting is carried out by hand.
